A computer user group, Central Iowa Mac Prepress User Group, held its first meeting on January 17, 1991, at the Butler Mansion. The name of the group became Macintosh Prepress and Imaging User Group, MacPI, in November of 1992. In recognition of changing technology, the name of the group became Digital Arts Group, Inc., on September 4, 1997. The purpose of the group continues to be educational: to support those using digital tools to work in media and the arts and to aid in the exchange of ideas, information, and techniques relating to digital arts work. Based in Des Moines, Iowa, the Digital Arts Group has members active in the fields of printing and publishing, advertising, design, multimedia, broadcasting, software development, computer sales, web development, and consulting.
